CE's

The National Certification Council for Activity Professionals Standard defines a continuing education (CE) is equal to (one) clock or contact hour. Breaks, lunches, and social meetings are not included in the final CE calculation.

CE's are most often used to renew National Certification.

Avoid Burnout: Balancing Self-Care with Other-Care.

Have you heard the maxim: Hard work never harmed anyone? Like other clever one-liners it conveys a half-truth. Yes, sensible, devoted work fuels self-respect, produces creative results and contributes to the good of others. Still, when you try too hard to do and make it all just right, you eventually get bone tired - and then become a candidate for physical, mental, emotional, or even spiritual burnout. It's ironic. In the push to have and be the best, you can neglect to enjoy yourself, others, and life. Your work and service don't have to be relentless or perfect to be wonderful and significant. Come and take the first step toward balancing self-care with other-care.
